Prince of Wales.

The Argument for the Plaintiff Proceeds -If William Computing is Expelled from the Army the Prince Cannot Remain.

London, Ji ne 8.—A most the sole topic of conversation this evening is the atheir of Sir Edward Clarke upon the Prince of Wales. Sympathy is not altogether with Sir Edward, for the Prince of Wales is personaly popular. On the other hand there is a strong and growing feeling that Gordon Cumming is the victim of a conspiracy which has rad another motive besides the preseveration of honor at cards, and that the Wilsons have rather sought than avoided the notoriety attendant upon fine trial. The evidence of their plebeianantecedents as compared with the family record of Gordon Cumming has caused a feeling against them in the aristocratic society in which they have been attempting to rold their own, and the genera opinion is that whatever the outcome of the trials, the Wilsons will never again sine in high society. The Prince of Wales is evidently determined to save from if ac can, and he has caused young Wilson to be elected. to the Mar borough, which is known as the Erince's private club. This however does not mean an open sesame for the young man to each society in Landon, for the prince line Jound before now that London clubs will not tolerate his dictation, and that is one reason he started the Marlborough where he could reign supreme, in the company of the cacs; whom, ie sometimes e looses as associates. he outcome of the trial is a subject of

The centinelation of the Prince of Wales by the news hiper press, especially his cenunciation by the lory press, has caused a tremencous sonsation throughout Great Britain, and it is free y asserbed that the revelations made curing the trial of the baccarat scanca, sur in court are judged to save cone more to unperi, the monarchy than any event which has taken hace for many years past in England. The fat assertion made by The Daily Chronicle to the effect that until the Prince of Wales on oath swears as "ris confederates" did, that he the prince, did not violate the solemn pleage he gave to Sir William Gordon Cumming, ne, the neir anparent, rests under an imputation of dishonor quite as snameful as that which the jury put upon Sir Williams Gordon Camming, reflects the general feeling on the subject. A precise account of the court proceedings was te egraphed each night to the queen, who is now at Balmoral castle in Scor and, and her majesty is said to have expressed her displeasure in such strong terms that The Truth of this city asserts that if would not be surprised if the court of the quoen's bench reveations were the cause of the Ear of Coventry resigning his office as master of ner majesty's buck hounds, or chief of the roya, nunt of her majesty's lousehold, for which office the earl draws an annual sa ary of $7500.

SCENES AT THE WEDDING.

London, June 19.-At 10 o'clock this morning there was nothing in the vicinity of Eory Trinity church to incicate that the marriage of the celebrated baccarat plaintiff was about to take place. So absolute pacthe secrecy been observed that the outer gates of the edifice were not opened at that hour. Presently the verger made his appearance and flung them open. A most immediatery thereafter a cab arrived from which stepped Sir William Gordon Cumming and his best man. Major Vesey Dawson, of the Coldstream guards. Both gentlemen by crue and cynical ingraduce. He has at once entered the courch and waker rapidly into the aisle adjoining the morning chape, wherein it had been arranged the ceremonies should occur.

Shortly after this two or three ladies entered. They were soon followed by Miss Garner, accompanied by Lord and Lady Kiccieton, and a young adv supposed to be the bride's sister, all of whom were concucted up the aisle by the verger. The bride was plainly cressed in a walking costume of French gray cloth. She wore a black straw hat, and carried her gloves in her hand.

W-AT BACCARAT S.

A Game Like Vingt et Un, but with More Combinations.

Baccarat, rarely ever played in America, is the cavorite rasmonable gambling game of England and the Continent. It is gambling pure and simple, may be played by any numper of players and with any number of packs of cards. A. bet against the dealer, who banks, and ceals from a box similar to'a cigar box. The face cards each count ten, and the others according to the number of meir spots. After the been made the banker deals two cards to each of the players, including himself, but the other Davers must receive their cards before the banker is served.

The aim of the players is to make the numbers 9, 19, 29, or as nearly those as possible, as 8, 18 and 28. Any player is at liberty either to "stand" with the two cards first. deals or to call for more, at, the risk of exceeding 29, when his stake is forfeited to the dealer. If after the distribution of two caros to each, any hayer has a "natura."thatis, a sum making 9, or next in value, 19 — re declares it, and the panker pays all who note superior nancs to his own, and claims from bose so ling inferior lanes. The players state their money separately, there being, in fact, as many separate games in progress as there are players, and the spectators may wager their money on any one of tiem, a of which must be accepted by the banker?

Brior to the banker making a start, he states the amount in the bank-for example. £50. Any one sitting down at the table has the right to call the whole of the bank, sesecting the left or the right on which to pick up the cards. If the ban's is not called, then the banker proceeds to deal to £25 a side, or as much of it as they be "marked" or ea e. -the, former meaning that the money is placed on the table; the latter that the banker has accepted the set without the money being stated. The letter course, lowever, is the exception, the ready coin being invarias bly planted. Previous to the banker dealing the cares, it is the cuty of two croupiers, one on the right and the other on the left, to count up the stakes deposited on either side. and then make up the bank. Thus the banker knows to the smallest coin, the exact amount of his imbutties. A Peculiar Experiment.

Denver San. Die pastors of the Protestant courches of Colorade Springs have arranged a peculiar programme of Sunday evening exercises for the next two months. One of them is to begin with a sermon entitled: "Way I Am a Christian." Then the others are to logically follow on successive Sabbaths with telling way they are the peculiar sind of Christians they are. Inus there will be a series of sermons on these subjects: "Way I Am an Episcopa.." Way . Am a Unitarian," "Way I Am a Methodist." "Why I Am a Congregationalist," and "Why Am a Rap-

There is nothing so strong in man as the spirit of contention. That is the last thing w rica civine grace overcomes, eit her in minister or layman. People may make all sacrifices, for their trickes and yet be severely and even crue ly intolerant of their peculiar views.

Aftie peculiar series of sermons at Colorado Springs continues, a josto ie succession, ritualism, universa sa vation, trinitarianism, falling from grace, the form of church government, fina perseverance, free-will, election, open and close communion and eternal punishment must almost inevitably be prought out and presented.
